Few cities anywhere offer the diverse recreational opportunities that are available in Hillsboro. The city's parks & recreation department operates Glenn and Viola Walters Cultural Arts Center, Community/Senior Center, River House, Shute Park Aquatic and Recreation Center, Tyson Recreation Center, Gordon Faber Recreation Complex, as well as maintains 23 other parks.

Discover the Outdoors

From swimming to golfing, hiking to biking, Hillsboro's beautiful country provides that much needed experience to satisfy your hunger for the great outdoors. The area's newest park – 53rd Avenue Community Park & Sports Fields – boasts gorgeous multi-purpose fields that'll help you get your feet moving in a variety of sports.

One of Hillsboro's greatest treasures is just south of downtown. Jackson Bottom Wetlands Preserve houses numerous exhibits and breathtaking views just minutes from town (503.681.6206).

Further outside of town, nestled in the heart of the Tualatin Valley is Henry Hagg Lake. With over ten miles of bike paths and hiking trails, the lake and Scoggins Valley Park provide a scenic tour outside the hustle and bustle of the city (503.846.8715).

Over nine golf courses surround the Hillsboro area – with public and private courses available, your golf needs can easily be met. Two of our clubs offer award-winning courses, have been host to pro-tournaments and earned status as top places to play in Oregon (Pumpkin Ridge Golf Club and The Reserve Vineyards and Golf Club). Needless to say, with Washington County's beautiful scenery, you can't go wrong at any course. Call to book your next round of nine or 18 holes.
