We love our water—from home to work to the Tualatin River and back again.

It's the same water our great-grandparents cooked with. It's what we wash, brush and flush with. It's the river our children play, kayak and fish in. It's the watershed our Northern Pintails, Bald Eagles, Kestrels and Red-legged Frogs call home. It's all one resource—one water cycle. It's why everything Clean Water Services and its member cities do, every ratepayer penny paid, keeps our community and our environment healthy. You might be surprised to learn just how much time, innovation, energy and brainpower we invest into our one resource. Learn more at cleanwaterservices.org.

Quality counts. Proposed rates begin July 1, 2016.

Everything we do at Clean Water Services aims to protect public health, while enhancing the natural environment of the Tualatin River Watershed. Combining science and nature, we work in partnership with others to safeguard the river's health and vitality, ensure the economic success of our region, and protect public health for more than 560,000 residents and businesses in urban Washington County.

Sanitary sewer rates are proposed to increase $1.22 (3%) a month for the average household. The Surface Water Management fee is proposed to increase $.50 (6.9%) per month for the average household. These proposed increases will take effect July 1, 2016, and will be shared proportionately between Clean Water Services and its member cities.

Join us for a public hearing on June 21, when the Clean Water Services Board of Directors will consider and adopt the proposed budget and rates. We welcome your comments. Please visit cleanwaterservices.org/budget.
